Head Of Red-Inspired Force Claims Guerrilla Troops Inflict Heavy Losses

RAILROADS RECOVERED

40,000 Of Tokyo's Soldiers Reported Isolated From Southern Supply Base

By The Associated Press.
WITH THE CHINESE RED ARMY IN HOPEH PROVINCE, NORTH CHINA, March 22.—Yeh's Red army commander, Yu Meng-Esao, believes the Japanese army is nearer defeat than at any time since the Oriental war began a little more than eight months ago (July 7).

Guerrilla marches, the Red army general related at his headquarters here in central Hopeh far behind Japanese lines, have isolated large forces of Japanese battling toward the Yellow river on the central China front.

Their communications have been cut, transport trains wiped out, many of their small railway station garrisons annihilated and their only food supply in some cases is reaching them by airplane. Many Japanese troops are in a precarious position, Yu said.

40,000 Japanese Isolated Among highlights of the situation of the Japanese, as pictured by Yu, were these:

An army of 40,000 Japanese in southern Shansi has been isolated from its supply bases.

Red guerrillas scored five successes in recent days in attacks along the Peiping-Hankow railway, wiping out small station garrisons. Chinese tactics forced the Japanese to abandon 35 miles of the Peiping-Hankow railway north of the Yellow river.

Three transport columns wending their way through tortuous mountain trails to reach the Japanese beleaguered in southern Shansi were annihilated by Chinese snipers.

Another Railway Cut
Thirty thousand Red Chinese soldiers lay across the communication lines of this army eastward from the Peiping-Hankow railroad, he said, while troops of Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek cut another railway in Shansi, leaving the Japanese completely isolated.

Meanwhile, Gen. Chiang's armies crossed the Yellow river northward in four places, according to Yu's reports.

Three victories in two days in southern Shansi below Taiyuan resulted in 1,700 Japanese dead, while the Chinese lost but 200, Yu said.

All foreign missionaries have been denied permission by Japanese to enter Shansi province, and travelers coming out of the province said they were cautioned by Japanese to "keep your mouths shut."

Rebels Renew Drive
In central China the Japanese pounded steadily at Chinese forces ranged along the south bank of the grand canal. But despite their fierce offensive, the Japanese were making slow progress toward Suchow, strategic junction of the Lunghai and Tientsin-Pukow railways, 22 miles to the south.

Meanwhile the Spanish insurgents, having consolidated recent sweeping gains in the Aragon, started "softening" the government's new defense line in the

Nazi Police Terrorize Freud, Famed Jewish Scientist Of Austria

SIGMUND FREUD
He Feels Wrath Of Nazis

Author Seriously Ill After Doors Of Home Are Closed And Passports Taken

By The Associated Press.
VIENNA, March 22.—Sigmund Freud, 82-year-old "father of psychoanalysis," was seriously ill today, close friends said, after a visit of secret Nazi police to his home last night.

The informants said the police took the Jewish scientist's passports and closed the doors of his home. Offices of the company which has published Freud's books also were closed.

Freud was ill when Adolf Hitler absorbed Austria into the German realm and for several days he was not told of the changes affecting his country and his race.

Austria's Nazi conquerors completed plans to win over elements of the Austrian population. The plebiscite propaganda drive starts Thursday with several chiefs making personal appearances and speeches. (The April 10 plebiscite was called by Fuehrer Hitler so that the Austrian people might endorse the Austrian-German union.)

"Bavarian emergency kitchens" fed thousands of Viennese poor, whom newspapers pictured in deepest want. Minor government work organizations received $36,000 for charitable purposes and promises of free vacations.

It was announced $800,000 would be devoted to Vienna slum clearance. Schools reopened after a holiday. Jewish teachers and pupils were excluded from opening exercises which paid allegiance to the new Nazi regime.

Gallows Trap Springs Twice For One Man As Kidnaping Trio Hangs

Abductors Of Seder Go To Death In Triple Execution At Moundsville Prison

By The Associated Press.
MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 22.—Arvil Adkins was gone today to the "glory" he envisioned as he dropped the second time through the gallows death trap in West Virginia's first triple execution for kidnaping.

While guards adjusted straps on the 25-year-old Huntington man's arms and legs and a crowd of 74 men and one woman watched in the tiny witness room last night, something went wrong.

There was a report like a shot and Adkins fell from behind the curtained platform through the trapdoor to the concrete 9 1/2 feet below.

Broken Spring Blamed
Guards quickly placed the dazed man on a stretcher and handed him back through the trap, blood trickling from a cut near his ear.

Warden C. M. Stone said a spring had broken, causing the accident. Seven minutes later, Adkins, supported by a guard, firmly told the spectators:

"I wish to see you all in heaven some day. I'm going to glory, goodbye."

There was another sharp report at 9:03 1/2 p. m., and Adkins dropped simultaneously with a companion, John Travis, 25, to death.

The two were followed 24 minutes later by Arnett A. Booth, 46, confessed leader of the crime which led to the hangings.

Italian Held Instigator
The three, all from Huntington, W. Va., were executed for kidnaping Dr. James I. Seder, 78-year-old dry leader, who was held captive in a mine for 11 days last November. Dr. Seder died of pneumonia four days after he escaped.

All three admitted their part in the abduction, but Booth told an FBI agent a few hours before his death the name of a Cleveland Italian he claimed actually had suggested the kidnaping and planned it.

JURY SELECTION NEARLY AT END IN ROGERS TRIAL

11 Tentatively Seated Gives Rise To Belief Panel Will Be Completed Today

VENIRE REDUCED TO 12

Actual Hearing Expected To Open Tomorrow After Visit To Crime Scene

Special To The Review.
LISBON, March 22.—Trial of Burl Rogers neared an actual start after 11 jurors had been tentatively seated, today with only the 12th and an alternate remaining to be selected from the rapidly dwindling venire of 75.

Twelve had been temporarily seated, but a defense preemptory challenge reduced the panel to 11, the same number seated when the session ended yesterday.

Rogers, accused of first degree murder in the holdup-slaying of Clarence Dickey, East Liverpool milkman slain Christmas day, 1935, watched without apparent concern as the attorneys sharply questioned the prospective jurors.

At noon there were 12 left of the original venire, specially summoned for the East Liverpool man's trial.

Indications were the jury would be completed by adjournment today. The jury on Wednesday would be taken to Thompson area, in East Liverpool, where Dickey and his brother, Frank, were shot when they resisted an asserted holdup attempt. Frank Dickey recovered and is one of the state witnesses. It was not expected another venire would be called.

Twelve jurors had been tentatively seated earlier after the exercise of preemptory challenges—one by the state and two by the defense counsel—resulted in excusing three who had been seated by adjournment at 4:30 p. m. yesterday.

The panel included Minnie M. Hudson of Salineville route 4; Veronica Maher of Salineville; Charles McDonald of Rogers, F. C. Board of East Rochester; Charles Cunningham of route 1, Wellsville; Charles W. Horger of East Liverpool; Mrs. L. A. Farrell of Lisbon; Mrs. Leah Stiller of Columbiana; D. D. Duty of Wellsville; Frank Saltsman of Wellsville; Earl Ruhl of Lisbon.

The defense excused Mrs. Stella Alexander of East Palestine; Mrs. Edna Lang of Salineville and E. V. Armstrong of Elkton. The state excused W. J. Vanable of Salem. The state had five and the defense three challenges left to exercise.

Preconceived opinions, opposition to the death penalty, which the state is demanding, and physical disability eliminated 28 of the 40 prospective jurors examined yesterday.

One venireman, W. J. Virden of Lisbon, was excused when the prosecution attorneys stated they were considering calling him later as a witness. Virden was turned away at the jail when Rogers escaped from the prison May 3, 1936, after sawing the bars of his cell and jumping from a second floor window.

Duty of Wellsville, one of the jurors tentatively chosen, is the father of Deputy Sheriff M. K. Duty, who took part in the recapture of Rogers in East Liverpool, Feb. 17. Duty stated he had no preconceived opinions regarding

INQUEST CONDUCTED IN LOG RAFT TRAGEDY

Coroner Halts Trip Despite Fretting Lumbermen

By The Associated Press.
MUNCY, Pa., March 22.—A river lumberman who survived the wrecking of a huge log raft, freed today over delay in completing her 200-mile trip down the Susquehanna river.

Coroner Thomas C. Brandon would not allow the raft to be moved until he holds an inquest into the tragedy that marred the historical revival of days when Pennsylvania was a great lumber state.

True to loggerman tradition, Levi (Bud) Connor, who constructed the 112-foot craft, was unshaken by the fact his brother, Harry, was among the seven lost when she crashed into a bridge Sunday.

"We're ready to go on a half hour's notice," Levi said.

While Brandon summoned a dozen of the 41 survivors to an inquest, the hunt for six missing men went on by plane and boat.

Sunstroke!

Sol Brings Dog-Day Heat To Crack 46-Year Mark For Spring's Debut

If Monday was the first day of spring, could today be the first of summer?

District residents pondered that question, preposterous as it sounds, as the mercury rose to record levels this morning and gave every indication of coming close to the 80-mark this afternoon.

After setting a new all-time record for March 21 by going to 74 degrees at the U. S. government weather station at Millport Monday, it climbed to 75 there today at 11 a. m., smashing all marks for the 22nd in the 46-year record of the station.

With the sun continuing to shine from cloudless skies it was believed temperatures today would miss by only a few degrees the all-time March record of 82, established March 24, 1910.

U. S. weather forecasts, however, indicated the unseasonable "heat wave" would not last much longer. Showers were predicted for tonight with Wednesday colder. Much colder weather was promised Wednesday night.

Such a temperature drop would be a blessing for the farmers, agriculturists pointed out. With at least one more cold snap likely, the fruit crop would be endangered should the continued warmth cause fruit trees to blossom.

NAVY BILL FACES FIGHT IN SENATE

Boah and LaFollette Lead Critics Of House-Passed Expansion Program

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 22.—The administration's naval expansion bill, outspoken critics indicated today, will become a vehicle for far-reaching senate debate on foreign policy, neutrality and national defense.

Senate opponents of the bill, which the house passed yesterday 232 to 100, are led by Senators Borah (R) of Idaho and LaFollette (Prog) of Wisconsin.

LaFollette, calling the projected $1,100,000,000 expenditure for new ships "preposterous," criticized particularly the proposal of naval experts to develop fleets capable of defending the United States on both coasts at the same time.

Nye Calls Plan 'Insane'
"We seem suddenly to have discovered the Atlantic ocean," he commented. "I always thought it was an asset from a defense standpoint, but now it seems that it is a liability—which is silly."

Sen. Nye (R) of Indiana said the "big navy" bill was warlike and would call for "the most insane program that could be pursued."

Chairman Pittman (D) of Nevada of the senate foreign relations committee said, however, there was no doubt that the bill would pass in virtually the same form as it was approved by the house. He added:

"The United States hasn't any partners among the nations, doesn't want any partners. Because of that, we must be prepared to make other nations afraid to attack us. It's the cheapest kind of peace insurance."

Hull Reemphasizes 'No Alliance'
Secretary Hull gave renewed emphasis to this "no alliance" attitude yesterday in a statement deploring bombardment of non-combatants by insurgent forces in Spain.

As approved by the house, the measure carried no funds for construction, but President Roosevelt has recommended that work be started on two of the three battleships it would authorize and on two of the nine cruisers.

The bill also would authorize 950 airplanes, two aircraft carriers, 23 destroyers, nine submarines, five destroyer tenders, three submarine tenders, 11 seaplane tenders and three repair ships.

Youngstown Woman's 22,000-Mile Search For Grave Of Mother Ends At County Home

Trail Through 30 States Traced To Learn Final Resting Place Of Parent Who Died In Institution In 1901

Special To The Review
LISBON, March 22.—A search through 30 states covering 22,000 miles ended at an unmarked grave in the Columbiana county home cemetery Monday for a Youngstown man and wife. County officials withheld the names of the pair.

The nine-month search for the grave of the wife's mother terminated when old records revealed the burial spot at the county home. With the discovery vanished an obsession which had tormented the Youngstown woman for years.

The story opens in 1901 when Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Riddle, now living on the Lisbon-Leontia road, were in charge of the infirmary. They accepted for admission one day a woman who had been abandoned by her husband and left destitute. Not long after her admission, she gave birth to a child which died. The mother passed on

DAVEY DEFENDS STATE'S POLICY IN COAL BUYING

Says Fuel Obtained At Less Than Prices Fixed By U. S. Board And Old NRA

HELP TO MINERS CITED

Governor Charges 'Hot Mix' Suit Instigated By G.O.P. Governor Candidate

By The Associated Press.
COLUMBUS, O., March 22.—Gov. Martin L. Davey upheld the state government's coal purchases today with the assertion that fuel was bought for prices less than those fixed by the federal coal commission and the old NRA.

Answering charges hurled at his administration by the recent senate investigating committee, the governor said in a radio address last night that while "the purpose of their (investigators) unholy procedure was to create the impression that everything about coal purchasing was immoral, illegal and reprehensible the facts are exactly the contrary."

The state purchasing department, he said, had paid for coal since the national recovery act was declared unconstitutional from 10 to 20 cents a ton less than code price, and from 24 to 35 cents less than the minimum fixed by the coal commission.

Safeguard Miners' Wage Levels
Failure of the purchasing department to take bids on coal purchases, he added, resulted from a policy designed to safeguard miners' wage-levels. Previous administrations inaugurated the system, he said.

"If the state coal business were open to competitive bidding," the governor asserted, "the great bulk of it would go to low-wage and non-union coal regions outside Ohio. The state's fair-price policy does protect the wages of Ohio miners."

Davey listed four subjects which, he said, were developed during committee hearings and were "worthy of serious notice." They were:

The testimony of Lee Bradley, now charged with perjury; the liquor department's trucking contract, which under Davey's order will be modified or discontinued; the "hot mix" pavement overcharges, and over-payment to the Maher-North Co., coal brokers at Cleveland, on state purchases.

'Hot Mix,' Basis Of Suit
The "hot mix" charge became the basis of a taxpayer's suit filed by Mrs. Agnes B. Dickinson, Columbus attorney, against State Highway Director John J. Jaster Jr. and 26 other defendants.

Mrs. Dickinson claimed the state was over-charged between $2,000,000 and $5,000,000 in "hot mix" purchases.

Morgan To Snub Roosevelt's Request For Reason Why He Should Not Lose TVA Post

CHAIRMAN SEEMS NOT DISTURBED OVER RIFT

ARTHUR E. MORGAN seems little disturbed over the TVA dispute between himself and the President as he leaves a White House conference after defying Roosevelt's demand for information relative to internal friction in the government agency's board. Morgan today declared he would snub the latest ultimatum of the President that he should give "any reason" why he should not be removed as chairman of the TVA.

YOUTH DROWNED FLEEING ARREST

Stuebenville Boy Plunges In Ohio River As Empire Marshal Pursues Him

Special To The Review.
EMPIRE, March 22.—A Steubenville youth drowned in the river here last night while attempting to elude a marshal who threatened him with arrest for creating a disturbance.

Jefferson county's sheriff, Robert Bates, said the victim is Andrew Gaulesky, 20, of Allikanna near Steubenville. According to the sheriff Gaulesky, with his brother, Anthony, 21, and a friend, Ben Chlokey, 31, all of Allikanna, motored to Empire to call on a girl.

They got into an argument while parked near the residence. The noise attracted Marshal Ed Byerly, who threatened them with arrest. As he approached the car, young Gaulesky jumped out and ran for the river.

He struck out as the marshal fired two shots into the air, hoping to stop the youth. "You can't swim the river. Come back," the marshal shouted, according to authorities.

Gaulesky returned to shore, hurriedly doffed some of his clothing and jumped back in, starting to swim again. He reached about 150 feet from shore and disappeared without an outcry.

Empire's flood patrol, Lowell Ferguson, Herbert Dunley and Ben Householder, manned a boat and dragged the river until the body was recovered.

The body was removed to the Elliott funeral home in Steubenville. Coroner Ray Slee conducted an investigation. He said Gaulesky and Chlokey denied they had created a disturbance. The drowning occurred at 8 p. m.

ROOSEVELT TO LEAVE TONIGHT FOR GEORGIA

10-Day Visit Set At Warm Springs; Will Speak In Gainesville

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 22.—President Roosevelt will leave by special train tonight for a 10-day visit to Warm Springs, Ga.

On the way, he will stop at Gainesville, Ga., tomorrow morning for a brief address at the dedication of Roosevelt square. This is a section which the federal government helped rebuild after a tornado nearly destroyed the town in 1936.

Taking along a small staff to help him carry on official business, Mr. Roosevelt will arrive at Warm Springs, where he helped found a colony for infantile paralysis sufferers, about 5 p. m., tomorrow.

During his stay at the Springs, the President is expected to make an automobile trip to nearby Fort Benning, Ga.

Chairman Says He'll Refuse Flatly To Reply To New Ultimatum Which Expired At 2:30 p. m. Today

VEILS INTENDED STEPS IF OUSTER'S ORDERED

Telegrams Pour In Advising Leader To Stick To Guns As Anxious Nation Waits President's Next Move

By The Associated Press.
YELLOW SPRINGS, O., March 22.—Arthur E. Morgan said today he would refuse flatly to meet President Roosevelt's request that he give "any reason" why he should not be removed as chairman of the Tennessee Valley authority.

"I have no further statement to make, other than what I told the President yesterday," Morgan said, following his return to his Yellow Springs home.

President Roosevelt gave Morgan until 2:30 p. m., today to provide "any reason."

There were indications in Washington that if President Roosevelt did not hear from Morgan he might issue an executive order to remove the chairman.

Vella Further Steps
Morgan declined comment on what steps he would take in such an event. He said that he planned to go to Chicago tomorrow and that his other plans were uncertain.

The chairman, storm center of a controversy involving the TVA, came here to obtain some old records, apparently for use in his battle with his co-directors, David E. Lilienthal and H. A. Morgan.

He said his visit to Yellow Springs was intended primarily to obtain the records, the nature of which he declined to discuss. He said he would remain here several days.

Advised To 'Stick By Guns'
Morgan pointed to a stack of telegrams and observed that he had received about 200 during the past 24 hours, most of them from the seat of TVA at Knoxville, Tenn.

"Without exception," he commented, "the messages have been of a complimentary and congratulatory nature," many of them advising him to "stick by his guns."

At Washington Mr. Roosevelt gave no advance indication of how he would proceed against Morgan. Some legislators expressed the belief Mr. Roosevelt might suspend Morgan until a congressional committee could inquire thoroughly into the feud among the TVA directors. Then the senate and house could decide whether to remove the chairman.

"I think the sentiment of congress is in favor of an investigation," said Sen. Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader.

Barkley declared that under the Constitution the President has the power to remove the TVA head, appointed by Mr. Roosevelt five years ago.

Morgan's supporters, however, have contended the TVA act provides that only congress can remove any of the directors.

Sen. Bridges (R) of New Hampshire, a TVA critic, said that if Morgan were forced out, he would introduce a resolution to remove Directors David E. Lilienthal and H. A. Morgan.

Morgan Expected To Fight Back
Most observers expected Morgan to fight the President's action through the courts.

It appeared certain he would participate in any congressional investigation, for he has said repeatedly

PATRICIA RYAN FREED IN HUSBAND SLAYING

Jury Deliberates For Four Hours In Murder Case

By The Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 22.—They had carried hysterical Patricia Ryan into a Bronx county courtroom early today to hear the verdict in her trial for the slaying of her patrolman husband, Michael.

A few moments later the black-clad 21-year-old widow walked unassisted out of a rear entrance of the courthouse, free for the first time in nearly five months to return to her children, Mickey, 2 1/2, and Patricia, 18 months old.

Nine men and three women jurors deliberated four hours before acquitting the slim, attractive defendant, who pleaded she had been made temporarily insane by her husband's brutal unnatural demands when she shot him to death with his own service revolver in their bedroom last Oct. 31.

Patrolman Ryan, described by the defense as a "drunken brute" and by his police superiors as a "model officer," was struck by two of three bullets fired by his wife.

likely to keep Dictator Adolf Hitler from goosestepping straight into fulfillment of his plan for domination of Europe. This query has been encountered continually by the writer ever since the Nazi chieftain's amazing annexation of Austria, unimpeded by anything stronger than pleas and protests. The latest occasion was during a discussion of foreign affairs at the largely-attended annual meeting of member newspapers of the Associated Press at Columbus, O., over the week-end.

There is a rapidly growing feeling that if Hitler proceeds with as much discretion as he did in the case of Austria, and doesn't openly challenge the powers to violent combat, he may come close to his goal.

Speed Aids Chances The faster he can work, the better his chances, and he indicated in his Berlin speech last Friday that he needed only four years "to complete the tasks ahead in the greater Reich."

Whether Nazidom, under Hitler or anybody else, would be able to maintain any such domination as he seeks is an entirely different proposition.

Leaders of democracy on both sides of the Atlantic hold that the dictatorships will defeat themselves in due course through opposition by their peoples, unless there is a decided change of policies.

The argument is that in this advanced day no civilized people will endure indefinitely complete suppression of individual liberty such as exists in the totalitarian states. They may stand for absolute regimentation for a time in the hope of escaping from desperate financial and economic difficulties but in the end they will turn against the bondage.

Worship Interference Dangerous Particularly dangerous is interference with the rights of the individual to worship as he pleases. Our Pilgrim fathers came to America to escape religious persecution. Even savages will fight for the right to worship their heathen gods after their own fashion.

The weakest spot in Hitler's armor is the attitude of the Nazi party towards the Christian religions. The attempts being made in Germany to "Nazify" both the Protestant and Catholic churches are dangerous in the extreme to the existence of the party.

Hitler's absorption of the Catholic country of Austria, and his evident intention to take over Czechoslovakia with its host of church goers, raises the vital question of whether he intends to alter the Nazi policy towards Christianity.

There have been indications recently that he has seen the writing on the wall and may inaugurate a regime of greater tolerance. If he doesn't he is inviting grave trouble.

Religion is a big thing in the lives of the newly absorbed people of Austria. Religious liberty was one of the fundamental laws of the republic.

Some 6,000,000 persons, or close to 91 percent of the population of that little country, are Catholics. Most of the rest are religious, more than 295,000 being Protestants and 192,000 Jews.

Out of Czechoslovakia's 15 millions, about 11,000,000 are Catholics, more than a million are Protestants and other religions have a considerable following.

In Germany itself the Catholic and Protestant churches claim close to 96 percent of the entire population—63 percent being Protestants and 33 percent Catholics. This means a total of 62,000,000 persons who for nearly five years under Nazi rule have been fighting for religious freedom. He is a very daring or very foolish man who challenges such a power.

Army Engineers Assure City Of Wellsville Of Plan To Push River Protection

Actual work on Wellsville's $250,000 federal flood wall will get under way during the first week of April, Mayor H. L. Kelley was assured by Pittsburgh district river engineers today.

Virtually all details of the improvement, intended to protect the city from ravages of the high river, have been completed and engineers at Pittsburgh are waiting the word to "go." The city has acquired all the necessary land rights, right-of-way and easements.

Engineers now are making tests of the ground near Third st. where the concrete part of the wall will be located. About $17,000 already has been spent in engineering surveys and tests. The city has used about $6,300 for private right-of-way.

Ground owned by the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Co., the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., the Stevenson Co. and the Freedom Oil Works Co. was acquired by the city without cost.

In return for an easement across property between Third st. and Little Yellow creek, the city made crossing concessions to the railroad company. These concessions included the abandonment of the Second st. crossing and closing of the vehicle crossing at Third st.

Capt. Ralph Lincoln, who will supervise the work, has announced that 750 men will be employed. They will be selected from WPA rolls and will be limited to 105 hours monthly. It is planned to work six days a week. The job was to have been completed not later than July 1, but because of the delay in starting it will not likely be finished until early or middle fall.

A special meeting of the city council will be held at 7:30 tonight to enact legislation abandoning three streets, none of which are being used.

These are First, Ott and Lisbon sts. First and Ott sts. never were opened to travel, while Lisbon st., across Little Yellow creek, is no longer being used since the collapse of the steel and wooden bridge about a year ago. The legislation will call for the abandonment of only that part of the street across the creek.

The post is entertaining with a series of penny socials every Wednesday at 7:30 p. m., open to the public.

All eligible veterans have been invited to attend the next meeting, April 4, at 7:30 p. m. Lunch will be served.

POLICE WARN YOUTHS SUSPECTED OF PRANKS

Pleasant Heights Culprits Cause Damage In Two Cemeteries

Police Chief Hugh J. McDermott today issued a warning to pranksters destroying vases and knocking over headstones in Spring Grove and St. Aloysius cemeteries in Pleasant Heights.

The culprits are believed to be boys approximately 12 to 15 years of age. Chief McDermott warned "The boys we pick up won't stop here. They will go directly to the probate court in Lisbon."

Jail Doctor Reappointed

LISBON, March 22—Dr. Seward Harris was reemployed as county jail physician for the year, starting April 1, by the county commissioners Monday. Under contract terms, Dr. Harris supplies all medicine and medical attention for prisoners.

CITY TO DISCUSS BOND PROVISION ON STREET WORK

Committee Of Councilmen To Convene Thursday On Problem Of Security

TRUCK STUDY IGNORED

Traffic, Parking Proposals
Aired At Monday Session
Of Municipal Group

The status of bonds required for contractors and individuals who excavate in city streets, will be discussed by members of city council street committee in a conference Thursday night at 7:30 with City Solicitor Carroll P. Lynch.

No mention was made at the meeting last night of the city's 1936 truck contract, voided by a ruling of Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy. Representing an outlay of $9,200 for seven trucks, the contract was ruled illegal because of its installment purchase provisions. The trucks are in use in the street department.

Refer To Street Work
The street problem concerns opening up alleys, covering piping streams, erection of parking signs and setting apart of parking space. Council also referred an injury claim to the claims committee and refused a damage demand.

Mr. Welch said former city ordinances called for posting of bonds by individuals or groups contemplating digging into city streets. A plumber, for example, used to carry $2,000 bond for water and sewer work. If he had to dig for a main or a line, the bond assured the city of his good faith in restoring the surface and protected the city from damage suits, Mr. Welch explained.

A later ordinance requiring $1,000 bond covering all types of street work, city officials in conference after the meeting, recalled. "Now no one posts bond," Mr. Welch declared. "Why not?"

G. Arthur Shone, clerk, will continue search among his records for old ordinances on the subject; he and Mr. Lynch will attempt to clarify present bond regulations and report to the street committee Thursday night in Mr. Lynch's office.

Cite Parking Proposal
"A number of cars could park back from the intersection, on city land, and still be near the downtown district," Mr. Skidmore argued. The proposal was referred to the street committee. Mr. Skidmore also announced that the Avondale st. fire hydrant had been installed.

Mr. Amos advocated erection of enforcement warnings, checked by police, for Eighth st. speeders. He was backed up by Charles Rumberger who, after pleading for signs, not traffic lights, outside the

200 Attend 10th Anniversary Celebration Of Boy Scout Troop 38 Here Monday Night

Growth In Membership From 12 To 71, With Cub Pack
Of 50, Shown In Report By Executives Of Units

More than 200 attended the banquet marking the 10th anniversary of Boy Scout troop 38 and Cub pack 1 of the First Methodist Protestant church here Monday night.

The event was conducted in the parish house of St. Stephen's Episcopal church. Circle 1 of the host church prepared the feast. Charles E. Felton, Columbiana county Scout council leader, presided and introduced Harold J. Gallimore as commissioner of East Liverpool Scouting. Frank T. Harding presented Mr. Felton.

Ralph Couch was presented as a member of the city Scout council and Miss E. P. Hazlett was introduced as a friend of the boys.

Mr. Felton pointed out that troop 38 had grown from a membership of 12 to 71, and that the Cub pack has 50 members, a total of 121 youths in the organizations.

The names of the Eagle Scouts were called by Mr. Gallimore when he responded with a brief address. They included Richard Wilson, present assistant scoutmaster;

The Waiting Game

MORE thinking has been done on American foreign policy in the last few months than was done in all the preceding months of the Roosevelt administration.

As usual, one group has been following the strict isolationist line, which leads nowhere, except to the conclusion that the United States is not isolated.

A small group, though no one hears anything about it, probably would like to see this country more anxious to intervene than it seems to be.

The official position, as explained last week by Secretary of State Hull, seems to be modified isolationism. Thus, while it calls for no commitments to join action with other powers, it does commit this country to defense of its interests.

Obviously, the nub of such a policy is its interpretation in individual cases. In the case of Japan, one of the aggressor nations, it would seem to call for what is called in sports a waiting game.

Instead of matching Japanese aggression with aggression, the United States would assume that because Japan has undertaken something which cannot be carried through to a successful conclusion, the part of wisdom is to wait for the Japanese mass mind to become aware of the same thing.

When that time came, this country would be in a position to deal with Japan as a friendly power. Japan would have nothing to forgive, but something for which to ask forgiveness.

It is a policy which entails extraordinary faith in the ultimate triumph of right when challenged by wrong. But who can say if adhered to faithfully, a waiting game would not be best for a nation which, thanks to geographical advantage, is able to be of the world without being inextricably bound up in the world's ancient jealousies, envies, greeds and hates?

No Apology Due

THE first spark of thought struck by the tragedy of the log raft which rammed a bridge pier near Muncy, Pa., is that the men who built and manned it were inadequate for a job which old timers knew much more about.

On second thought, that explanation doesn't seem plausible. Even though the raft was being used for pageantry, to commemorate what used to be a commonplace sight on the Susquehanna river, it probably wasn't the first one to come to grief. Floating logs to market always was hazardous; it still is. Accidentally, the pageanters commemorated the hazard, instead of the triumph over hazard.

Perhaps the old timers could have surmounted the hazard of a bridge pier. But in view of the multitude of things now being done which would have scared them stiff, such as rocketing on four wheels at 60 miles an hour on a hard road with a telephone pole every few feet to hit, it scarcely seems that moderns owe them an apology for not taking a raft down the Susquehanna without a mishap.

For The Barbers

THAT baldheaded man out in Oklahoma who's trying to get his haircuts at a reduced rate is off on the wrong foot. True, there's not so much hair on bald heads to cut, but the hair that's there must be cut more carefully.

It's a precision operation, like fixing a watch. A watch repairman doesn't do things on the same scale a garage mechanic does, but that doesn't mean he doesn't have to do his stuff right when he does it.

You don't have to believe this. Just ask any baldheaded man. He may grouch about paying the going rate for his haircut, but deep in his heart he thinks the barber earns his money by an extra margin of tonsorial artistry.

This is about the only comfort an ordinary baldy gets out of life in a world which sets great store by hair. Don't take it away from him.

Here, Carry The Ball

GOV. FRANK MURPHY'S appeal to Henry Ford to take leadership in establishing a minimum annual wage system for labor throughout the country, accompanied by a threat that the government will have to do it if Mr. Ford doesn't, is not without a touch of humor.

Members of Gov. Murphy's team have tried plunging the line with the minimum annual wage ball before—against the building trades. They learned to their sorrow in that instance that there was going to be plenty of opposition from building tradesmen.

Undoubtedly, they would like to have Mr. Ford carry the ball for them; he can stand punishment. On Mr. Ford's side, however, a certain amount of reluctance is to be expected. A half century of evading political tacklers seems to have left him with the conviction that they never hand the ball to a private citizen if they think they can get any where with it themselves.

But It Really Happened

MONDAY, March 21, was a day to tell the grand-children and great-grandchildren about. It was the first day of spring, but that's a detail.

What matters is that the sun shone all day. No snow fell; there wasn't even a drop of rain. Overcoats were abandoned and umbrellas stood forlornly in corners.

It looked like spring, felt like spring, smelled like spring, and by golly it was spring! Thinking back over other "opening days" in years gone by when the calendar said "Spring" but the weather said "Oh yeah?" we felt like the skeptic who saw the 13 lb. bass and muttered, as he turned away, "I don't believe it."

On The Record

Roosevelt, Stealing Hitler Thunder, Oversteps Authority In Presenting Ultimatum To Morgan

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

HITLER presented an ultimatum to Austria. Smigly-Rydz presented an ultimatum to Lithuania and President Roosevelt presented an ultimatum to Mr. Morgan, the chairman of the TVA board; and there is a certain similarity in the nature of all three.

What is this fantastic procedure going on in Washington? Is it a hearing, or another Russian trial? And on what basis is it being held, anyhow?

It ought to be pointed out that the President's bill for the reorganization of the executive has not yet passed. But the President is acting as though it had. His powers under the TVA act are strictly limited.

He can remove a member of the board from office for only one reason—as defined in Section 6 of the act. If he can prove that in the appointment of officials and in the selection of employees for the corporation (the TVA), any political qualifications have been permitted or given consideration by any member of the board, the President can remove the guilty member from office.

Nobody has ever suggested for a moment that Arthur Morgan has been guilty of any such misdemeanor. Therefore the President has no power to remove him and his suggestion, now openly made, that chairman Morgan resign, is shameless pressure.

This is the way the President began his career. He forced Mr. Humphreys out of office because Mr. Humphreys' policy was not in harmony with his own. He asked for the resignation of Mr. Humphreys gave it, although he had been appointed for a definite period of time, which had not elapsed. Mr. Humphreys died shortly after and his estate sued for his pay for the duration of his unexpired term on the ground that the President had no right to remove him, but only congress had that right. And the Supreme Court upheld the Humphreys estate. In that decision the court said:

"Such a body (independent commissions such as the TVA) cannot, in any proper sense, be characterized as an arm or an eye of the executive. Its duties are performed without executive leave, and, in the contemplation of the statute, must be free from executive control." 295 U. S. 602 At 628-629 Year 1935.

ARTHUR MORGAN is asking for an investigation into the whole practice and procedure of the TVA. The President is not empowered by the act to conduct any such investigation. Under Section 17, the President is authorized—and this is the complete extent of his authorization—"to make any investigation he may deem proper to ascertain whether there has been any undue or unfair advantage given private persons, partnerships, or corporations, by any officials or employees of the government, or whether in any such matters the government has been injured or unjustly deprived of any of its rights."

This authorization does not even carry with it the right to make an investigation into the procedure that was followed in the Berry case, since a federal commission prevented that. It is, however, of great interest to know exactly what that procedure was. But it is not the President's business to find out. It is the business of congress.

Under the terms of this authorization, it is the business of the President to investigate the advantages given to the Aluminum company and the Monsanto company who, it is alleged, are getting power at one-half the operating cost. It is also his business to investigate the contracts made with the Central Arkansas Co. But it is not his business to unroll the whole matter and procedure of TVA administration, which is the crux of the issue. Nor does the act provide that the President can hold a member of the board "guilty of contumacy" as the President has decreed Mr. Morgan to be.

Contumacy is not yet a crime in the United States. The congress of the United States and Congress alone can clear up the questions which are bothering the people of the United States, whose money is invested in the TVA. Congress ought to raise the question under what right Mr. Lillenthal is negotiating with Mr. Wendell Wilkie to purchase the Commonwealth and Southern Corp. and thus socialize the power business in the Tennessee valley.

THE TVA board is specifically authorized by the act—no. 17-73d congress (H. R. 5031)—to do certain things. It is, for instance, authorized to manufacture and sell fertilizer and to "produce, distribute and sell electric power, as herein particularly specified." But nowhere in the entire act, which specifically gives the board the right to purchase and condemn lands for the construction of dams, and to construct transmission lines to farms and villages that are not otherwise supplied with electricity at reasonable rates, and to enter into contracts with other power systems for the mutual exchange of unused excess power upon suitable terms—in all the 15 closely printed pages of this act, carefully defining the powers of the board, there is not one word that gives the board or any member of it the power to buy out private utility companies with the money of the United States taxpayers. Not one word. I am not a lawyer, but if Mr. Lillenthal is negotiating with Mr. Wilkie, to expropriate the power of the TVA, his powers, then I am an ultra-vires. The issue is not whether it is desirable or not to have public ownership of power in the Tennessee valley. That is another matter altogether. The issue is precisely what Arthur Morgan has repeatedly said it was: "Honesty, openness, decency, and fairness in government."

If the congress of the United States wants to nationalize power in the Tennessee valley, it can do so, either by passing a new law, or by amending the TVA act. And it can empower Mr. Lillenthal to negotiate with that end in view. The whole point is that it has not so empowered him, and Mr. Lillenthal is therefore preparing to legislate for the people of the United States all on his own, presumably with the backing of the President. What kind of government is this, anyway?

I hope Arthur Morgan's heart, holds out. He is a sick man. He has recently had a very bad pneumonia, and I understand that his heart has been seriously weakened. It is a hard thing for a man who, his whole life long, has deserved nothing but well of his country, who has made great areas of the blossom like the rose, and who has given up a successful private life, to enter the public service at far less remuneration than he can earn privately to be subjected to the kind of inquisition that went on yesterday.

Chairman Morgan is absolutely right. The President is not a fact-finding body. The truth about the issues he has raised cannot be found out in a quadrangular conversation. They can only be confessed, and Mr. Arthur Morgan can be railroaded.

And if he is, what happens to the whole conception of civil service in this country? (Copyright, 1938, New York Tribune)

Editor, The Review

Dear Sir:

NOTICE that the city of Wellsville on March 17 passed ordinance No. 1245, which in effect makes it impossible for any person to drive to the Ohio river. Third street to the river is closed.

A flood wall is to be built. The Pennsylvania railroad allows the city to build this wall over certain land, once donated to the railroad by residents now deceased. The value of this entire land at present should not exceed $1,000.

It eliminates a crossing worth thousands of dollars to the company and priceless to the city. This was done thoughtlessly on the part of the city. If the Erie canal is built and a high stage of water is had at all times with heavy tonnage by boats, we had better keep our water rights.

This flood wall will always be an eyesore, like a walled city, and at the price we are paying we had better do without it and let it flood every 30 years. Then there is a possibility there will never be another flood when the storage dams are built in the upper river.

Many competent engineers think the building of a highway from Third st. to Silver switch, raising it above flood stage, would be better.

And if the Pennsylvania company and the United States Steel would return to the city at the same price they paid for the valuable factory sites they now own, but do not use, the entire valley would be bettered.

A referendum should be had on this at once.

And perhaps the city should advise the railroad company it had no authority to abandon a state road.

If this road is closed our children doubtless will regret it, if we do not.

CHARLES BOYD, Wellsville.

ACQUESCENCE of the United Auto Workers' union in several Detroit automobile and parts plants in abandonment of the stagger or spread-the-work system and substitution of a longer work week for fewer men apparently marks the end, at least so far as the automobile industry is concerned, of a palliative for unemployment.

Illustrating this changed policy, one parts maker had been employing 5,500 men in two shifts, 5 1/2 hours each, 3 days a week. This gave each workman about 17 1/2 hours pay per week. Now about 3,500 men will work 8 hours a day, 4 days a week, averaging 32 hours.

Some surprise has been occasioned by the fact that the vote of the union members on the new system was practically unanimous, but there is logic in it. With automobile industry wages averaging about 75 cents per hour, a work week of 17 1/2 hours nets little more than a relief allowance or a WPA connection. Hence, the younger employees who were virtually voting themselves out of their jobs, had little, if anything, to lose. Senior workers are assured a living wage, and hence their acquiescence is understandable.

There is in this new attitude at Detroit a rather discouraging conclusion. It appears that workers have reached the point where they feel the older men, in point of seniority, should be taken care of in their jobs while the federal government will look out for the remainder. In a sense, this is a further shift of the responsibility and the burden of depression on to the shoulders of federal government—something to be deplored.

Hitler's Military Machine Marches Into Top Ranking In Europe; Duce's Army Rates Second

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

NAZI Germany remakes the map of central Europe under the marching feet of a soldiery now rated the finest in the world.

Arms experts here agree the German army has replaced the French in the last year or two. Many of the military sharps rate Italy's forces second only to the Germans.

The Hitler military machine is listed as tops in three highly important respects:

1. The average German soldier has been selected more carefully and is superior physically and mentally to the average soldier of other European nations.
2. The German soldier is more highly trained.
3. The German forces are in general the best armed and equipped.

Of an available manpower considerably larger than that of France, the Germans have picked the cream for army service. German young men have been trained organized reserve of about 100,000 back of the 175,000 first-line troops. Today her 550,000 actives are said to be supported by a trained reserve of 2,000,000.

Moreover, union with Austria means a substantial increase in Nazi military might. Austria has 50,000 actives well trained and fairly adequately armed. These are supplemented by a reserve of 350,000 to 400,000 men, almost on a par with the actives.

France, informed observers say, has a first-line army of some 700,000 and a trained reserve of 5,500,000, but many of the actives are stationed in French outposts. Much French equipment—artillery and aircraft—is old compared with the Germans'.

Italy has a first line army of 750,000, ranked by several authorities as a shade superior to the French in training and physical characteristics. Trained Italian reserve numbers 5,600,000.

RUSSIA, with a reputed standing army of 1,000,000 and a reserve of 14,000,000, leads in manpower. But the effectiveness of the Russian organization, particularly since the purge of many of its ablest high-ranking officers, is considered a doubtful quantity. Besides, the bulk of Soviet military forces are said to be concentrated in Siberia, far from Europe.

Great Britain, relying on its navy supplemented by a strong air force as the first line of defense, is rated as comparatively weak in land strength. Britain has an active force of 380,000 men, including about 160,000 in India. She has a reserve of 278,000 at home.

Little Czechoslovakia, fearing the German pincer, has a first-line army of 190,000 and a reserve of 1,500,000 fairly well trained. But military observers doubt if it could successfully resist for more than 10 days the forces of Germany, vastly superior in numbers and equipment.

The German air force also is rated tops in Europe. Italy is classed second, France third and Britain fourth. The British are coming up as an air power and type for type the modern British planes are said to be superior to the German.

The Germans, however, have been producing combat planes at a rate of four to the British one. (Associated Press Feature)

HERE'S EUROPE'S BIG FIVE

	Actives	Trained Reserve
Germany	550,000	2,000,000
Italy	750,000	5,500,000
France	700,000	5,500,000
Russia	1,000,000	14,000,000
Great Britain	380,000	278,000

Army strengths in the table above, as estimated by qualified military experts, are listed in the order of their rating for military effectiveness man for man and weapon for weapon rather than on a basis of numerical superiority.

In the last four years, the Germans have concentrated on their famed technical talents and thoroughness in mass production of rifles, machine guns, medium and heavy artillery, tanks, airplanes and motor transport.

RESTRICTED by the Versailles treaty to a force of 105,000 men, Germany by 1934 could not put more than 175,000 first line men into the field. Right now she could muster 550,000 first class soldiers, military experts think.

Four years ago Germany had an

'Yes Or 'No'

Are You, Mr. President, Respecting Spirit Of Constitution By Keeping 'Judge Vinson' In Congress?

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 22—Maybe if President Roosevelt familiarizes the American people with the idea of asking for "yes" and "no" answers, such as he is insisting upon from Chairman Morgan of the TVA, the vague may extend to acts of the executive himself. Some rather pertinent questions can be asked on which it would be desirable to have light shed.

One question, for example, on which many people here would like a "yes" or "no" answer from the President is this:

"Do you respect the spirit of the Constitution of the United States when you appoint a member of the house of representatives as a judge of the United States circuit court of appeals, and, even though confirmed by the senate of the United States more than three months ago, you ask him to remain an active member of the house and in charge of a piece of legislation on which, as a judge, he is subsequently to pass in hundreds of tax cases?"

The point relates to Rep. Vinson of Kentucky, who was nominated on Nov. 26, 1937, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Robb and was confirmed by the senate on Dec. 9, 1937.

Mr. Vinson has delayed taking the actual oath of office at the request of the President, who has wanted him to steer the new tax bill through the house and conference committee. Mr. Vinson has been chairman of the sub-committee of the house ways and means committee since he was appointed by the conference committee on the new tax bill appointed by the two houses to settle differences between the two chambers on legislation.

But the Constitution of the United States says: "No person holding office under the United States shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office."

The purpose of that clause, together with another sentence in the same provision about members of the senate and house being appointed to civil positions created during their respective terms of office, was to prevent the appointing power from being used to influence improperly the national legislature or for congress to seek to create new jobs for its members.

Mr. Vinson comes from Kentucky, and there is no particular reason why the President has to appoint anyone from outside the District of Columbia to fill a vacancy on the court of appeals bench here. Nor is Mr. Vinson such an outstanding lawyer that he must needs be selected above all others to fill the vacancy. As a matter of fact, Mr. Vinson, by his record in congress, has not shown himself to be judicial-minded at all, and is regarded by many of the oldest members of congress as one of the most partisan-minded men in the Democratic party.

But the senate, which is the sole judge of qualifications, confirmed Mr. Vinson, and that's in conformity with the Constitution, so no exception can now be taken to this type of appointment, indeed, no criticism can be visited on Mr. Vinson himself for accepting a life job on the bench in the District of Columbia at $12,500 a year.

The real question at issue, and which could easily be covered by a "yes" or "no" answer, is what understandings existed between the President and Mr. Vinson in connection with this appointment to the bench. It is true, as currently reported, that Mr. Roosevelt promised the appointment to Mr. Vinson in appreciation of services rendered to the administration in congress? The Kentucky representative has voted with the new deal almost without exception, and few individual records of "rubber stamp" voting can be found that are any more subservient to administration's wishes.

Why did the President ask Mr. Vinson to delay taking the oath of office? Is not Mr. Vinson now a circuit court judge of the United States and has he not in fact been so ever since Dec. 9, 1937? Was it intended under our constitutional system that, by the introduction of a technically—delay in taking the oath of office—the constitutional purpose of keeping the judicial and legislative branches of the government separated should be defeated?

For today there is only a three-judge court in the court of appeals here when there should be a five-judge court. There are four judges available, but, in order to have an odd number, only three are sitting on the bench. Thus, cases which should have a full-five-judge bench are being decided by only three judges, again a disservice to the people of the District of Columbia and to litigation from all over the country who come to the local court because it is one of the principal review tribunals on administrative law.

Mr. Roosevelt's political deal with a prominent member of the house of representatives involves, no doubt, a desire on the part of the administration to show, by example, how it rewards "rubber stamp" congressmen, but it also involves the matter of getting the administration's way on tax legislation. Mr. Vinson helped to write the "face-saving" report which spared the President the denunciation he deserved for ever permitting such a damaging provision as the undistributed surplus tax to be written into law, a circumstance which has been one of the causes of the present recession in business and employment.

Supposing the Mellons or the Morgans or some Wall Street interest about to be benefitted by tax legislation had signed a contract with a member of the ways and means committee of the house to serve for life in a job, but the actual commencement of service was to be only after the date of passage of the legislation in which this particular interest was to be served, would the American people ever stand for the making of such a contract? Was not a contract between a member of congress and the President of the United States to appoint a member on the circuit court of appeals bench, provided he delayed taking office till the tax bill was jammed through the house and the conference committee, and understanding that is contrary to the spirit of good government and the constitutional separation of powers? If a "yes" or "no" is not forthcoming on this from the White House—and presumably, under our democracy, the press still has a constitutional right to ask questions about the conduct of government—then, maybe next November, when the American people go to the polls, they will answer "yes" or "no" for themselves. There can surely be no harm in propounding such a question at this time.

Napoleon-Hitler

THE SEARCH for similarities between Adolf Hitler and Napoleon Bonaparte, a favorite indoor sport at the moment, turns up about as many differences as likenesses. For instance:

Both were strangers by birth to the countries they were to rule as dictators and both came from complete obscurity. But Napoleon was a brilliant soldier with a good education; Hitler has neither education nor military skill to distinguish him.

Both were arrested in their youth, but for opposite reasons. Napoleon was a radical plotter against a conservative government. Hitler was a conservative plotter against a radical government. Napoleon was found innocent; Hitler was found guilty.

Neither man is noted for having intimate friends. Both are noted for being moody, opposed to laughter and inclined toward ruthlessness. Both have a reputation for being dynamic in public, but Napoleon was equally dynamic in private, whereas Hitler is said to be lethargic when there is no mass meeting to inspire him.

Napoleon was frankly actuated by self-aggrandizement; Hitler prefers to think of himself as an instrument. Napoleon used France for his own ends. Hitler is using himself for the sake of Germany, as he sees it.

Napoleon was crushed because he failed to wrest control of the seas from England. Victor Hugo said, "God was bored with him."

ENGINEERS BUILD RIPRAP TO CHECK FLOOD DAMAGES

Protective System Devised To Safeguard Banks From High Water Ravages

DAM REPAIR EXTENDED

Dravo Low Bidder For Job Of Repairing Fleet Of 6 Steel Cargo Carriers

Stone riprap and walls as a means of preventing bank erosion was receiving the attention of rivermen today. Stone probably will be used a great deal in the construction of the Wellsville wall, facing it wherever the current may have a tendency to cut.

City officials at Chester have forwarded blue prints of bank erosion opposite their city to district engineers. Rivermen call attention to placing of cinders more than 50 feet high without the usual protective works at Brunots island, describing this condition as menace.

Undermine Cinder Pile
A high river, it is argued, might undermine this cinder pile, washing caving banks into the river, thus forming bars or raising the bed of the stream; removal would become costly.

More than 1,000,000 cubic yards of cinders were washed from the island during the major flood of 1936 while sand and gravel deposits in the river were damaged. Work on the Wellsville flood wall is progressing rapidly in the projects section of the district engineer's office. The definite project report for the water resources planning and investigation has been completed, as has an estimate of flood damages under the heading of improvement planning.

The Dravo Corp. bid low in the district engineer's letting for bids for repairs to a fleet of six steel barges. Their $5,646 was matched with $3,180.72 by the American Bridge Co., $29,803 by the Bethlehem Steel Co. and the government estimate of $7,675.45.

Dam Repairs Delayed
Still another time extension for repairs to lock 13 has been made because of flooding of the cofferdam. April 1 is the completion date set.

In dam 8 movement, the John G. Britton was down with two barges of gasoline and two barges of coal, the Reliance down with six barges of gasoline, the B. F. Fairless, down with six barges of coke, the LaBelle up with nine empties and the Champion Coal down with six barges of coal.

SALINEVILLE
The following pupils received certificates of merit at the music festival of the north eastern district of Ohio sponsored by the Ohio Musical association in Chardon Saturday: Saxophone, Marilyn Madison; Edna Louise Holt, Clarinet; Robert Webb, trumpet, and Ruth Willis and Frank Hart, vocal.

Others attending from here were S. E. Amsler, music director; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Holt, Mrs. Mattie Kirkbride, Miss Ada Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Willis, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Madison and Harry Webb.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Llewellyn and family of Salem visited Sunday with local relatives.

Mrs. Dora Hunter, president of Circle One of the M. E. church, was honored by members recently in the home of Mrs. George Boals in appreciation of her long service as president of the Circle since its organization 24 years ago.

Social hours were held and lunch was served. The Circle presented Mrs. Hunter with a set of dishes and other gifts. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Clara Everett of the Salineville Lisbon rd.

James Orr of Youngstown spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Orr.

Mrs. Ernest Madison is a patient in the East Liverpool City hospital.

The Band of Orchestra Boosters club will meet tonight in the high school auditorium. A program has been prepared and lunch will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Russell Jr., of Hanoverton announce the birth of a son Richard, March 16.

The Boxwood Barrier

By BLANCHE SMITH FERGUSON

The Story So Far: The boxwood hedge, surrounding Goodloe's Choice, in the Maryland hunting district, is a symbol and a sacred boundary. On the inside Judith Goodloe is longing to hear a proposal from dashing Gary Brent. Outside, on horseback, Reuben Oliver peers enviously over the hedge. In spite of his self-made fortune, Judith is beyond his reach.

CHAPTER SEVEN Not Sporting

REUBEN started with a voice said genially: "You here, Oliver? I thought you left the Club by the other road?"

"I did, then switched around. You've caught me snooping, Jim. I beg your pardon."

Jim Goodloe waved the apology carelessly aside, "Look," he pointed with his crop, "The pups I told you about."

Silently they watched the two red setters scampering about. A white cat climbed frantically to a place of safety in the rose arbor and looked indignantly down. Lank, white coated boy and trim maid moved expertly about. Back of Mr. Goodloe's chair Amos stood like a guardian angel.

Reuben spoke his thoughts: "It doesn't seem quite real."

He meant that it was subtly unlike anything his money, so recently acquired, had been able to buy. To his eyes it was unattainable as some fabulous Nirvana. A heaven to be entered by a chosen few. He glanced quickly at Jim Goodloe. "With such a background and folks to love him a man should go far."

Jim caught the "lance and perhaps something of its half envious longing. He said: "We think it's pretty nice here, but never having lived anywhere else, we can draw no comparisons."

"There aren't any."

"Thanks. Come in, Reuben, and meet my grandmother."

Dark, as well as the Goodloes, slighter than most, high-strung, kindhearted, reckless is the word that best described Jim. He always acted first, hastily, usually imprudently and seldom repented at all. "Come on in."

Terribly Reuben wanted to go in. "Are you sure I won't intrude?" Jim was quite sure Reuben would intrude but he said easily: "Sure! Let's go over right there."

Reuben looked at the formidable green barrier, higher than the average man's head, at the smiling one growing within, with such a short runway in between that only the most expert rider could go over successfully. Then he looked longingly at the wide swung gates a scant 300 yards distant.

Those gates were the safe entry for him. Reuben knew it only too well, but some grinning, inner devil tempted him.

"Don't feel so inferior," it said. "What these people can do, you can do—and more."

Laughing "Let's go!" Jim put his scrawny little roan back a few paces and went over with ease. Reuben hesitated for the fraction of a second then followed.

"Ha," The first hurdle cleared.

"Easy!" He lifted his mount for the second with assurance. Midway across he looked straight into Judith Goodloe's amused eyes. "She's laughing at me!" Reuben felt a rush of prickly heat, Laughing!

Involuntarily his hand upon the bridle tightened. He pulled his mount at the exact second when all four feet were off the ground. The startled animal hesitated, then plunged gallantly on.

Too late! Reuben tried to cling with his heels. Clutched at the gray's mane. Catastrophed over its head. Turned a somersault that would have done credit to a circus rider, then, missing the tea table by a couple of inches and striking a huge stone jardiniere, he came ignominiously to earth and lay, unconscious, with blood rushing from a wide cut in his head.

"Oh—h!" The tea drinkers scattered in confusion. "Oh!"

"Look out, Judy!" Jim shouted to his sister who was in the path of the frightened gray. "Catch his horse, somebody!"

Gary captured the trembling animal. The others rushed to Reuben's side—all save Amanda.

"Who is it?" she demanded, between stiff lips.

"Oliver," Jim enlightened her. "The cabbage person—I might have known!"

"He's terribly hurt!" There was no hint of amusement in Judith's eyes now.

Dick Blount, on his knees by the unconscious man said: "Bad head bump. Case for a brain surgeon. I'm afraid."

"Most likely it's a hospital case. Wouldn't it be better to call an ambulance?" Gary asked sensibly.

"An ambulance will be an hour getting here. We can't let him lie—"

"Dr. Slade will bring him around," Jim said, "Gran—"

The Indecency Of It But the old woman sat frozen, unhearing.

"Of course Gran wants him taken to the house," Judith decided quickly. "Couldn't he be carried easier on that glider seat? Ben—Dick—take hold—"

They lifted the injured man. The procession, followed by watchers, started down the garden path. Only Amanda sat immovable, her eyes sunken slits of gray ice in her white face.

The indecency of the man! Tumbling off his horse! Breaking and tearing her boxwood!

Little did she care if his common neck was broken! But that hole in her hedge—a cruel, zig-zag rent that let the daylight through! It might have been in her own body, so acutely did she feel the wound.

For a long time she stared fascinated, then covered her eyes with trembling hands. Tears, the slow hard tears of age, trickled through her white, ringed fingers.

In all the years she had guarded that box! In all the years it had guarded her, such a thing had never happened! She shivered as though touched by a cold wind. Was it an ill omen?

A shadow slipped past her. Amos muttering something unintelligible about "po white trash" was, with unsteady, hurried fingers, trying vainly to patch the hole.

Jim, pacing around the lily pond, swore softly.

"A pretty kettle of fish! Oliver will probably be laid up for weeks!"

Absently catching grotesque glimpses of himself in the water, Jim scowled. His creditors would have to wait—impossible to ask a man, tied by the leg under your own roof, for money.

"Gad, if I ever get out of debt, catch me ever getting in again!"

It was an old and often broken promise, Jim wondered why it was so hard for him to say no when there was money to be lost, and harder to say yes when it was to be picked up easily.

"I'm just a fool," he reflected bitterly. "A fool who knows nothing except horses, with a soft head and no backbone."

No use to try to get any more money out of Gran—she had raised a terrible fuss the last time—besides the old girl was having tough sledding herself, trying to make one dollar do the work of ten.

"I'll have to sit tight—it will be like sitting over a volcano. Oliver should have known better," gloomily. "It wasn't sporting."

JUDGE DAY WILL GIVE ADDRESS TO LAWYERS
Institute For Attorneys To Be Held Saturday

"Lawyers Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" is the subject of an address by Judge Luther Day of Cleveland to be given at the lawyers' institute in Lisbon Saturday.

Judge Day will speak at the banquet at 6:30 in the American Legion home. Sessions of the institute will be held in the courthouse in the afternoon.

William Hart, Alliance attorney and candidate for the state supreme court, is another speaker in the law conclave designed to keep interest alive in new legal developments. William W. Dawson of the Western Reserve university law school, Cleveland, will speak on "Declaratory Judgments," while Robert M. Hunter of the Ohio State university law school, Columbus, will have as his topic "Law in the Jury Room."

Representatives from Carroll, Stark, Mahoning and Trumbull counties will be guests of the county association.

DUFFY ATTENDS TRADE HEARINGS AT CAPITAL
Potters Association President Unable To Take Part
James M. Duffy, president of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, is in Washington today to attend hearings on the proposed reciprocal trade agreements with Great Britain.

W. H. Locke Anderson, president of the United States Potters association and vice president of the Edwin M. Knowles China Co., will be unable to attend. The hearing was called by John P. Gregg, executive secretary of the committee for reciprocity information.

Roosevelt Gets Piece Of Oaken Timber Used For 'Pioneer' Crafts
Valley Resident Among Two Who Make Presentation At White House

By The Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 22—President Roosevelt received from two bewhiskered young men Monday, a piece of oaken timber of the type being used in building flat bottom boats at West Newton, Pa. to duplicate the Putnam-Cutler expedition to Marietta, O. 150 years ago to establish the northwest territory.

David Peterson of Chicago and Montre Parr of Mingo Junction, O., in buckskin clothes and carrying ancient exploring equipment, carried the wood plaque to the White House.

Millions Are Fighting That Tired Feeling
Some people are always tired, no matter how much sleep they get. Often they are just suffering from constipation. For early fatigue, mental dullness, sleeplessness, sour stomach and its resultant bad breath, mental depression, the aggravation of most skin blemishes, can all be caused by it. So keep regular. And if you need to assist Nature, use Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. This gentle laxative can help bring relief. Extremely important, too, is the mild stimulation it gives the flow of bile from the liver, without the discomfort of drastic, irritating drugs. That's why millions are sold yearly. What Kind Of A Tenant Are You?
When a very old man, John Quincy Adams is said to have replied to an inquiry regarding his health as follows:
"I am all right, but the house in which I live is wearing out. I must soon be leaving it."
The "house" in which you live — your human body—will be tenatable if you can best do that with your physician's aid.

PRICE DECLINES RULE STOCK LIST

Attempts To Lead Strength
To Market Fail; Trade
Exceptionally Slow

By The Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 22.—What analysts termed "discouraged selling" pulled leading stocks down fractions to two or more points in today's market.

Efforts to give the list an upward push at the start met with meager response and a lower drift soon got under way. Dealings were exceptionally slow on the retreat.
Speculative forces seemed decidedly chilled when Undersecretary Magill of the treasury, testifying before the senate finance committee, voiced administrative disapproval of most tax changes proposed.

The foreign picture provided scant inspiration for market operations either way. Trends in markets abroad were indecisive.

Bonds acted a bit better than stocks, but buoyancy was lacking
there. Commodities turned in an uneven performance.

Inclined to give ground were U.
S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, U.
S. Rubber, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, General Electric, Du Pont, Chesapeake & Ohio, Union Carbide,
Western Union, J. I. Case, Philip Morris and John-Manville.

Utilities exhibited some resistance.
Westinghouse flopped about four points at the worst on trade estimates of the concern's first quarter earnings would make an unusually poor showing against profits in the 1937 period.

The financial difficulties of France in her rearmament campaign, with possible subsequent repercussions on world economics, came in for renewed study, as the cabinet voted an advance from the Bank of France of 5,000,000,000 francs.

COAL BUYING POLICY

chases and asked double the loss
in damages.
Depositions in the case were taken at the courthouse yesterday until Charles S. Druggan, attorney for the Hot Mix Bituminous Industry of Ohio, Inc., objected to introduction of records brought from the highway department offices. He was upheld in his contention that an Ohio code prohibited removal of records from state offices, and the hearing was adjourned until Wednesday, when it will resume in Jaster's offices.

Gov. Davey charged in his broadcast that the "hot mix" suit was instigated by an unnamed "Republican candidate for governor."
"This is fine. We welcome it most ardently and ask merely for a speedy trial," he said.

The governor's speech was the fourth of a series of Monday night addresses over an all-Ohio network.

Taylor Terms Davey's
Addresses 'Baloneycasts'

By The Associated Press.
SALEM, O., March 22.—State Senator John Taylor, who was a member of the senate graft-hunting committee, says Gov. Martin L. Davey's Monday night talks are "baloneycasts."

"The governor last night in his weekly 'baloneycast,' tried to justify the state's paying an extra dollar a ton for coal," Taylor told a reporter today. "This part of the investigation was particularly important to me because it directly affected my district in which most of the coal in question was mined (Jefferson and Belmont counties)."

Taylor asserted citizens generally are not averse to paying a fair price for coal, so that operators may pay miners a fair wage; but asked, however, "why was it necessary to pay the fair price or 'extra dollar' to political go-betweens and why did the state stop buying coal from the legitimate sales agents of the Betsy mine in Jefferson county?"

PLANS SET FOR 50TH ANNIVERSARY AFFAIR

School Jubilee Guests To Include Early Teachers

Tentative date for the golden anniversary of West End school was set at April 22 in a business session of the Parent-Teachers' association presided over by Albert Kinney in the building Monday night.

John W. Coleman is chairman of the anniversary committee, with William Riedel vice chairman and Mrs. Ina McLane secretary. Mrs.
Kelsey Johnson has been appointed chairwoman of the social committee, while Mrs. Gladys Kinney and Miss Hazel Minnix, principal, have been placed in charge of compiling a booklet to contain a history of the school and pictures of its founders.

Three of the four women teaching in 1883, when the school was erected, will attend the 50th anniversary celebration, including Miss Lucy Moore of Beaver county, the first principal.

Mrs. Stella Dimmerling of the Daughters of the American Revolution presented an American flag to the school during the Monday night meeting.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE WINS $10,000 LIBEL ACTION

British Court Calls London Article
Against Star 'Gross Outrage'

By The Associated Press.
LONDON, March 22.—Shirley Temple of the movies has been awarded $10,000 in public settlement of a libel action based on an article which appeared Oct. 28, 1937, in "Night and Day," a London journal which has since discontinued publication.

Lord Chief Justice Hewart termed the article a "gross outrage."

Sir Patrick Hastings, plaintiffs counsel, refused to read the "beastly publication" in court but said it was "one of the most horrible libels one can imagine about a child nine years of age."

The libel action was brought against the author of the article, Graham Greene, the proprietors of the journal, the publisher and the printer.

The Twentieth Century Fox Co.,
which produced "Wee Willie Win-kie," a picture starring Shirley, also was a plaintiff in the suit, it was awarded $7,500.

DAUGHTER'S LENGTHY GRAVE SEARCH ENDED

a few weeks later and was buried in the cemetery lot adjoining the institution.

The Youngstown resident was a daughter of the abandoned mother.
The deserting father took her and an older brother to his mother's home where they were reared, leaving them no information regarding their mother. The daughter married eventually.

A natural anxiety grew into an obsession. Presently it threatened the home, and the husband, to restore his wife's peace of mind, embarked on a long search. Hundreds of clues were run down only to prove futile. Old newspapers were carefully culled. Public officials were contacted. Monday the couple's perseverance was rewarded when somebody suggested they interview county home officials.

They called on Supt. and Mrs.
John Neill, who referred them to Mrs. Riddle. With the help of old records in her possession, the former matron was able to piece out the story. She recalled the circumstances under which the abandoned wife was admitted, telling her eager listeners she was brought to the home by the Liverpool township trustees 37 years ago and recalled details of the funeral.

The Youngstown woman asked how her mother was dressed when buried. Mrs. Riddle was able to satisfy this pathetic inquiry by assuring the daughter the dead mother had worn the best the county could provide. When they were assured the remains had been enclosed in a casket, the wife said she was satisfied.

Destruction by time and the elements of the older markers in the cemetery prevented identification of the exact grave. But the bereaved daughter, her mind composed at last, felt feeling, she said, as if a milestone had been lifted from her neck.

MORGAN TO SNUB NEW ROOSEVELT REQUEST IN RIFT

TVA Chairman Will Not Give Reason Why He Should Not Be Dismissed

that was the only way to show up conditions in the TVA accurately.

Sen. Norris (Ind.) of Nebraska, who had insisted on a senatorial inquiry, agreed today to joint action by senate and house, provided the anti-TVA activities of the power companies also are studied.

Yesterday's meeting between Mr. Roosevelt and the three TVA directors was called after Morgan twice had refused to substantiate his accusations against the two other board members.

Lilienthal and H. A. Morgan previously had given testimony in support of their counter-charges that Chairman Morgan had obstructed TVA activities.

Morgan declined once more to speak. Then the President said these blunt words of the man whom he had described only a few minutes before as a "very old friend":

President's Blunt Words

"Arthur E. Morgan has failed to sustain the grave and libelous charges of dishonesty and want of integrity which he has made against his fellow directors; his conduct in this respect is legally and morally unjustified."

"On the face of the record, the charges of the other directors that Arthur E. Morgan has obstructed the work and injured the morale of the organization of the Tennessee valley authority must be accepted as true; he has refused to offer testimony in denial of the charges."

"Arthur E. Morgan is guilty of insubordination and contumacy in refusing to submit to the chief executive's demand for any facts upon which he based charges of dishonesty and want of integrity on the part of his fellow directors."

Unless he resigned or withdrew his charges, the President told Morgan, "only two courses appear open—either your removal or your suspension as a member of the board of the Tennessee valley authority."

Morgan replied:

"Mr. President, I deny the accuracy and the adequacy and representativeness of the statement you made. I have no other statements to make here now except these:

"It is my judgment that my resignation at this time would not be in the public interest. Therefore, I do not tender my resignation. I wish also to say that I challenge the suggestion and deny the right and the power to remove or to suspend me."

Intricate Eye Labyrinths Brought Into Open

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

PHILADELPHIA—A labyrinth in the eye, more intricate than the Minotaur's cave, has been discovered by H. K. Hartline of the Johnson foundation, University of Pennsylvania.

The eye labyrinth is the thousands of nerve fibers, which together give sight. Dr. Hartline discovered how to isolate a single fiber, attach it to an electric circuit, and find out how it reports to the brain.

He found that single fibers flash different sorts of signals. One kind sees a light when it is first switched on, and then stops seeing. Another sees the light as long as it is on. A third apparently never sees light while shining, but only afterward.

This last fiber is responsible for the image of light which a person thinks he sees momentarily when light is followed by instantaneous darkness, or immediately after closing the eyes.

The nerves which see only momentarily when light is switched on are responsible for the impression of extra brightness that makes the eyes blink. After these curtain-raising nerves stop, the extra brightness impression fades and the eye is said to "adapt" itself.

$10,000 GRANT SPURS OHIO BELL RATE FIGHT

State Board Of Control Sets Aside New Fund To Continue Hearings

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., March 22.—Fortified by a $10,000 appropriation from the state board of control, the state utilities commission renewed today its fight to recover approximately $18,000,000 in refunds and interest in the long-standing Ohio Bell Telephone Co. rate case.

The additional funds were granted late yesterday and the control board indicated that since settlement of the case might be delayed further by failure of the company and Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy to agree on a method of procedure, the commission itself was considering advisability of settling the matter.

CITY RELIEF ROLL DROPS TO 1,301

429 Less Clients Reported With Further Reduction Seen Through WPA

East Liverpool today faced April 1 relief distribution with 429 less clients than March 1 and awaited additional reductions of the poor aid rolls expected when workables, almost all certified to WPA, are assigned jobs.

There are 1,301 persons on relief K. L. Shenkel, case worker, revealed in figures submitted to council last night.

The city's welfare deficit reached $10,971, representing $1,318 as credit expenditure authorized by council and the balance of $9,653 accumulative from past distributions.

Shenkel's report, read by G. Arthur Shone, clerk, showed the present welfare load at 437 cases, representing 1,301 individuals. Uninvestigated cases total 32, or 114 persons.

The city's March relief distributions totaled $7,755. Authorized credit of $1,318 left a remainder of $6,437, covered by the month's state allocation of $4,510 and the county commissioner's grant of $1,927.

Break-down of the 437 cases on hand at present lists: workable families, 154 cases or 674 persons; workable singles, 22; families direct, 160 cases or 504 persons, and singles direct, 101.

Relief clients will be given apples from the surplus Commodities Corp. shipment of three car loads to be received this week. H. A. Moore, in charge of the distribution in Columbiana county, said the apples are locally grown and will total 1,800 bushels.

A car load of potatoes from Nebraska was being distributed in East Liverpool and other subdivisions today, supplementing the clients' direct relief.

JURY SELECTION NEAR END IN ROGERS TRIAL

the case and had not discussed the matter with his son.

Prosecutor Karl Stouffer issued summons for 17 witnesses to date. Subpoenas to be issued may bring the total to 30. Dudley Adams, serving a life sentence in the penitentiary, is expected to be among those in the latter group.

No defense witnesses have been summoned and Attorneys Samuel Chertoff and Frank Hoover, defending Rogers, are guarding their identity. Subpoenas will not be issued by the defense until the state nears the end of its case.

Rogers, neatly dressed in a dark gray suit, handcuffs dangling from his right wrist, sat composedly at a table all day Monday listening to the questions asked each prospective juror. His wife was one of the spectators crowding the front of the courtroom. Several friends and relatives of the accused also were in the audience.

Attending the morning session were 20 students from a criminology class at Mt. Union college. The state, represented by Prosecutor Stouffer and Attorney John Baucknecht of East Palestine, charges Rogers was one of three bandits who held up and killed Clarence Dickey Christmas day in 1935. Attorney Baucknecht was appointed by Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones, presiding at the trial, to replace Assistant Prosecutor Louis Tobin, who defended Adams at his trial.

Frank Dickey, the victim's brother, who was wounded in the holdup, is expected to testify this afternoon or tomorrow. Other early state witnesses will include Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dickey, parents of the slain man, and officers figuring in the arrest of the bandits. The third member of the trio, Clinton Daniels still is at large.

Sheriff Harry Gorney appointed Kieth Liston of Fairfield township as special deputy for the duration of the trial. Liston is Rogers' guard in the courtroom.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 22.—Efforts by the German government to regain free Nazi cultural activity for Germans in Brazil ran into a blind alley today.

It was ascertained at the foreign office that Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha has rejected flatly the latest series of representations against Brazil's ban on Nazi activities.

Carl Ritter, the German ambassador, acted for his government. It was said reliably that the foreign minister considered a note submitted by Ritter to be couched in such strong language that he rejected it without further consideration.

Parties Abolished Nov. 10. President Getulio Vargas abolished all political parties when he set up his authoritarian regime Nov. 10.

He reiterated last week his determination not to permit Nazi activity among the 155,000 Germans in Brazil. He, with other officials, has indicated a belief that the Nazi cultural program was in effect political.

The German foreign office newspaper, Deutsche Diplomatische-Politische, yesterday termed the Brazilian ban an action "against Germanism."

(Brazil has a large German population, some 154,000 Germans entering the country in the period 1884-1933.)

"Better Appreciation" Hoped For. Some circles said Germany valued Brazil's friendship too highly to resort immediately to a sharp diplomatic protest against what was regarded here as an unfortunate misapprehension among Brazilian authorities of the aims of German organization in Brazil.

A hope was expressed that explanations in high Brazilian quarters may result in a "better appreciation" of the German point of view.

In this sharp distinction was made between German citizens in Brazil and naturalized Brazilians of German origin.

GIRLS REACT FASTER

BERKELEY, Calif. — Boys are faster than girls in reaction time, but the difference grows less during adolescence and tends to disappear with practice, Dr. Harold E. Jones, director of the University of California institute of child welfare, revealed in an article written for the American Journal of Psychology.

Physician Says Noise Reduction Lessens Fatigue

Unnecessary Sounds Cause Distress For Healthy As Well As Sick

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

MANY OF my readers will recall that a year or so ago several of the large American cities undertook campaigns against noise. I am glad to say that these campaigns have been remarkably successful. Undue and unnecessary noises are certainly less.

The noise of a large city is often unbearable. Unnecessary blasts from automobile horns, loud speakers, radios and other sound-producing devices have caused great distress even to well individuals. They are particularly annoying to the sick and to those who are recovering from illness. For all, noises are an evil. No one can question that noise is one of the factors in the production of certain forms of ill health. A prominent health official pointed out that noise abatement is just as important for the welfare of a community as the purification of drinking water, sewage disposal and cleanliness of the streets and homes. Perhaps this is somewhat far fetched, but it is so important that health authorities have become convinced, it is a real factor in health matters.

Investigation throughout North America indicates definitely that noises are greater and more varied here than in most countries across the Atlantic. The worst of it is that much of the noise is unnecessary. We must get rid of all these unneeded but distressingly irritating racket.

An Evil Effect

The evil effect of noise on the human mechanism cannot be disregarded. Experiments with industrial workers clearly show that when noise prevention is enforced in factories, the quality as well as the quantity of the output of the work, is increased. There results much lessening of fatigue and improved health among the workers.

Noises produce increased muscular tension, which in turn leads to fatigue. Of course, there is an occasional person who appears to be indifferent to noise as well as immune to the germs of disease. But unfortunately, such persons are in the minority.

Noise prevention should be taught in the home. I know how children love to make big noises, but perhaps they may be coaxed to join the crusade.

Load radios at night may be particularly distressing to the occupants of your house as well as the adjacent neighbors. If there is a sick person near your home, he will greatly appreciate the control of your radio as well as your assistance in reducing other unnecessary noises.

Koala Customs

"YOU look very gentle, very kind," growled Honey Bear, as the koala bear came down from the top of the tree and stood in his yard.

"You are gentle, too, aren't you?" he asked. "I am sure you must be because Willy Nilly left the gate of my wired yard open and he wouldn't have done that if there had been any danger. What a wonderful little man he is."

"You show that you have good sense and judgment, and that your opinions are worth hearing when you say that," growled Jelly Bear. "And you're quite right — Willy Nilly would not let you run any risk, and we are friendly. We couldn't help but be with Willy Nilly for our guide in all things."

The bears walked into the koala bear's yard.

"Pardon me," he grunted "if I have a drink of water first of all. Will any of you have some?"

The bears shook their heads, and the koala bear went over to a pan of water and lapped it up quickly.

The cubs and Chubby laughed to see him. "You drank that just as though you were our dog, Rip."

The koala bear nodded, and said in his funny little grunting voice: "That is the way I always drink when I live among people."

He looked for all the world like a toy bear. He wore a grey coat and he looked at the bears in such a solemn little way that they wanted to laugh. And he almost looked as though he wanted to smile at himself. His ears were very round and his little muzzle was quite black.

"I've had many a nice talk with Willy Nilly," the koala bear continued. "He lets me sit on his shoulder just as my owner does. But you must meet the family!"

Get at the Cause of Constipation!

You know that constipation often gives you that dopey, sunken, sagged down feeling. You just get at the cause and fix it!

If you eat what most people do—things like bread, meat and potatoes—the chances are all that's the matter with you is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean what you may think. It's a kind of food that isn't entirely digested, but leaves a soft, bulky mass in the intestines that aids elimination.

If this is your trouble, what you need is a dish of crisp, crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. It contains the "bulk" you need, plus Nature's intestinal tonic vitamin B₆, and iron.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and see if the old world doesn't look a lot brighter! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

BLUE AND WHITE GRID CANDIDATES TO START TRAINING GRIND TODAY

Coach Pleased With Enthusiasm Displayed By Aspirants Monday In Reporting For Uniforms—Gridders Sent On Practice Field But Get No Organized Work

Unbounded enthusiasm marked the opening of spring practice for East Liverpool High school's gridiron aspirants as well as those from the grade schools, future grist for the Potter mill, who will work out for four weeks alongside their "older brothers."

Coach Joe Morbito was well pleased with the spirit demonstrated by the boys, expressing the hope that it would continue in evidence after the tough grind gets underway.

There was no organized workout Monday, most of the coach's time being devoted to passing out equipment to some 80 high school grid-ders and 60 of the grade school boys.

Each, however, was required to don his uniform and get out on the field to run around a bit, toss the football and get the feel of things.

This afternoon the work is to start and Morbito promises that it will be stiff from now until the spring session closes four weeks hence.

Today's workout will consist principally of calisthenics, conditioning exercises and running games. It will be light, speaking comparatively, but tough enough to labor those who are not in tip-top physical shape. Each successive day the candidates will be given stiffer doses, working into light scrimmages next week.

The four-week session will be devoted mostly to extended drills on fundamentals with a view toward sorting out the material preparatory to picking the squad next fall. Only a few plays will be doled out but the spring training is expected to be topped off with a regulation game between last year's seniors and next year's prospective varsity.

TAD DILORETTO ILL; EAGLES FORCED TO POSTPONE MATCHES

PROMOTERS of the amateur boxing show at the Eagles hall, scheduled for Wednesday night, today were forced to postpone the program until Wednesday of next week because of the illness of Tad Dilorretto, state American Legion welterweight champion and principal attraction of the show.

Tad was stricken with a cold over the week-end which necessitated his staying out of school Monday.

He submitted to an examination by Dr. C. J. Maxwell, who said that while the trouble was not serious, it easily could become so and that the fighter "should refrain from all active exercise until it is cleared up."

Dilorretto was all for "going on" despite the doctor's orders, but the promoters, considering both the welfare of the boxer and fair play to those fans who already have purchased tickets for the show, immediately postponed the program.

With proper rest and care, Dilorretto should be back in tip-top shape by next Wednesday. The Kent fighters were advised of the circumstances and agreed to the postponement. Tickets already purchased will be good whenever the show is put on.

ORCHARD GROVE CAPTURES TITLE

Covert Leads Late Rally To Give Team Championship In Church League

Orchard Grove M. E. church's basketball team, putting on the steam in the second half of Monday night's playoff encounter, climaxed Saturday's last-ditch triumph by again beating the Christians and thus capturing the East Liverpool Sunday school loop crown.

The Christian five, which led the league all through the race until its defeat in the final game Saturday, went out in front last night 3-6 at the half. This margin was increased to 11-6 as the second half got under way, but the Orchard Grove quintet turned around and scored 13 points while holding the Christians to one and won the encounter 19-12.

Covert, Orchard Grove forward, was the individual star of the game and netted 10 of his team's points. Judy, who scored six points, was the only member of the Christian quintet to aggregate more than two points.

More than 500 fans witnessed the struggle.

The summaries:

O. Grove	G. F. Christians	G. F.

DYKES CLAIMS SOX RATE IN FIGHT FOR TOP DIVISION BERTH

By The Associated Press.

PASADENA, Calif., March 22 — The Chicago White Sox, who serve those bitter pills the Cubs have to swallow before and after each regular meal of the baseball season, are off to a late start this year but promise to repeat the dose as soon as they hit their stride.

More important, the Sox, aided by the prospects of heavier hitting, hope to administer generously these pills or defeat to members of their own circuit, the American league.

Manager Jimmie Dykes has spared not a sunny day whipping the Sox into shape and issued his annual ultimatum that the Pale Hose "will be in there fighting in the first division this year."

To date the Sox have dropped exhibition games to their rivals from Chicago, the Cubs, as well as to Pittsburgh and Los Angeles, but Dykes is not worried about these early spring setbacks.

Dykes, with the trading of Zeke Bonura for Joe Kuhel, stands to emerge as a goat or a hero during the coming campaign. If the former-Washington first baseman fields as well as Jimmie expects and hits as well in the pinches as Jimmie predicts, the loss of big Bonura may not be felt so much as some of Dykes' critics forecast.

Prior to the Bonura trade Dykes did not like to be quoted on Zeke's holdout, an annual custom, but it wasn't hard to translate his lip movements when the New Orleans Italian's name was mentioned.

Dykes, from all indications, plans to stand pat on virtually the same pitching staff, which was rated the second best in the league last year. The hurlers, after being held up in training by California's recent rain storms, are rounding in to shape. Even long John Whitehead, the non-talkative one, is down to a mere 205 or so.

DAWSON OUTFIT WINS YOUNGSTOWN BATTLE

The Dawson Funeral Home five, featuring the seniors from this year's East Liverpool High school varsity, pushed their way into the quarter-finals of the Mahoning Valley Junior tournament in Youngstown Monday night, downing the Rangers, Steel city quintet, 39-23.

The locals took the lead at the start and held it throughout the game. Ray Duffy, star guard on last year's Potter five, led the scoring with 14 points. Hines and Vocial each bagged seven.

The summaries:

Training Camp Highlights

St. Petersburg, Fla. — Tommy Henrich is making Joe McCarthy look very good these days. There were some doubts as to whether the New York Yankees' manager had guessed right when he gave Tommy the right-field job made famous by Babe Ruth, but in yesterday's game with Cincinnati Henrich cut off a runner heading for third with a fine throw, made a spectacular catch of a short fly and hit two singles.

St. Petersburg, Fla. — Although he probably won't play against the New York Yankees today, Dolph Camilli, Brooklyn first baseman who came to terms yesterday, says he'll be ready to play soon. "I'll play any minute Burleigh Grimes says to get in," he remarked.

St. Petersburg, Fla. — Johnny Vander Meer has Manager Bill McKeechie and the Cincinnati Reds' coaches guessing. McKeechie insists the youngster is a potential fireball king, if he could get Johnny to control the ball with an overhand swing. Vander Meer complains this makes his arm sore and fails to follow the manager's advice.

Bradenton, Fla. — The Dean brothers' winter home had something of a holiday as "Me and Paul" went up against the Boston Bees today. Stores and offices were closed for "Dizzy Dean Day" in which the hurling brothers were to get their first real test since Paul reported there were no twinges in his salary arm and Dizzy recovered from a severe cold.

New Orleans — Oscar Vitt, Cleveland's manager, seems to think his charges are in pretty good shape. He went fishing yesterday, leaving Coaches Wally Schang and Johnny Bassler to conduct a light practice.

San Francisco — Pie Traynor, Pittsburgh's pilot, was highly pleased with the hurling of Marvin Duke as the Bucs came here to start a series of a half dozen exhibition games. Duke gave only one hit in three innings against the Chicago Cubs yesterday, the best showing of any Pirate flinger so far.

SIoux FALLS, S. D. — Ray Steele, 220, Glendale, Calif., won on forfeit from Jules Strongbow, 237, Tulsa, Okla.

SENIOR VOLLEYBALL LOOP FORMED AT 'Y'

The Y. M. C. A. senior volleyball league has been organized and will swing into action next Thursday night. Four teams of eight men each will make up the loop and games will be scheduled on Monday and Thursday evenings.

The team rosters are: Bees — Leonard Allen, Richard Candlin, William Cope, Ronald Delaney, J. J. McFadden, Clarence Moore, Paul Unger and Fred Yontz.

Cubs — Leroy Barnes, John Barnhart, James Bowen, Virgil Kirkbride, James Massey, Ralph Mathias, John Porter and Fred Sautel.

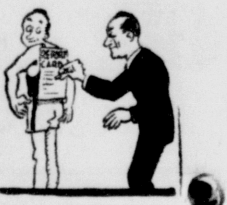

Yanks — Edward Bennett, Sam Brown, William Buckley, William Pittman, Richard Forzano, Robert Greenwood, Mike McKenna and Wilfred Howard.

Reds — Bernard Brown, John Cook, Gwilym Jones, Charles See, Isadore Ruder, William Skaleski, Herbert Thompson and Kenneth McCaughtry.

The Bees will stack up against the Cubs in the initial encounter Thursday night, while the Yanks and the Reds will stage their opening match on the following Monday.

A's For This Athlete

Phi Beta Kappas are scarce among athletes at Arkansas U., where only one sports ace wears the scholarship key. Ralph Rawlings scores A's in the classroom as easily as touchdowns on the gridiron. (He was leading point-maker of the Southwest conference in 1932.) And he runs the century in 9.8.

One Of Classiest Fields On Record Tuning Up For North And South Open Golf Tourney—Baer In Position To Dictate In Fighting Circles

PINEHURST, N. C., March 22.—Down here in God's country (to this author, anyway) the sun shines brightly as they get ready for another North and South open golf tournament. . . . One of the nicest fields on record is tuning up for the classic which opens tomorrow. . . . Dick Metz is the favorite. . . . From here the boys will move over to Greensboro for a three-day tourney with $5,000 as prize money.

Dope from the coast is Joe DiMaggio can hardly wait to get to St. Pete. . . . and at $25,000. . . . Nick Altrock, clown of the Washington Senators, is in his 40th major league training camp and still is the pet of Dixie. . . . No matter what you think of him, Max Baer is in a position to do a little dictating in heavyweight circles. . . . and don't you think he won't.

Judge Landis will have plenty to say soon. . . . Nice of the boys to honor Bill McKeechie, manager of the Cincinnati Reds and in this book one of the three smartest plotters in the two big leagues. . . . There is absolutely no truth in the rumor. . . . That Tom Yawkey is considering ditching Eddie Collins. . . . Eddie is tops with the millionaire Red Sox owner. . . . When Bill Terry wired Clyde Clutman he might wind up in Jersey City, Clyde began looking up trains for Baton Rouge.

Lefty Gomez is predicting he'll turn in 25 triumphs for the Yanks this year. . . . Cleveland correspondents report Bob Feller is a lot smarter than last year. . . . Drs. Mickelson and Talbot report from the south Dizzy Dean really is a changed man.

Don Smith's league leaders kept their place at the head of the procession in the Y. M. C. A. business men's volleyball league by annexing two out of three games from Frank Diamond's outfit Monday night.

The Smithmen lost no time in copping the first two frames 15-12 and 15-8, but Diamond rallied to win the final 15-7.

The final match will be staged Thursday night when Stan Hilbert will meet Hugo McKernan. Hilbert can the Smith for first place by taking three games from McKernan.

Daily Horoscope

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, March 23
ALTHOUGH the solar position might seem to preface a very definite step in the direction of putting affairs on a firm foundation, yet there are signs of difficulty and disturbance to be reckoned with in attaining such desired stability. Sudden disruption threatens, possibly precipitated by bad management, disputes or impulsive acts. By exercising prudence and restraint, there should be gain in sound investments, real possessions or other matters of old standing.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which there will be definite opportunities for stabilizing the affairs, increasing the possessions and putting the fortunes on a sound road toward success. But this advantageous prospect should not be jeopardized by rash and impulsive conduct or bad management of suddenly arising situations.

A child born on this day may have a studious and sound mentality and may attain success. However, a tendency to adventure, change, waywardness and argument may prove its undoing.

NEW CUMBERLAND
